“Managing Your Career: Being The One”

Where am I in my career? I’m being recruited, should I stay or should I go? How can I “be the one” hiring managers are looking for? Join us as we answer these questions and discuss career self assessments, proactive next steps, and being very mindful of understanding what recruiters/hiring managers are looking for in industry leaders.

Angelique Grant, Ph.D., Senior Consultant, has worked in university advancement for over 22 years, most recently serving as the Assistant Vice President for Development at Florida International University in Miami, Florida where she oversaw the fundraising efforts for eight Colleges and museums - and responsible for over $30 million annually during the university’s $750 million campaign. Earlier, she served as the College of Medicine’s Assistant Vice President of Development and Assistant Dean of Medical Advancement at FIU, where she led a development team, and implemented a comprehensive fundraising program for this new College. This university advancement veteran has held fundraising positions at the University of Miami, Miller School of Medicine, Princeton University, and Washington State University raising over $100 million in her career. The Fulbright Scholar was a communications instructor at WSU, and adjunct faculty member at UM. She has expertise in medical development fundraising, building teams, and strategic development. She holds a Ph.D. in Higher Education Administration specializing in Institutional Advancement, a M.A. in Communication from Washington State University and B.S. in Journalism from Florida A&M University.

Christopher Braswell, President, has over twenty years' experience partnering with organizations in talent management, executive search, and leadership development. In his role at TM², he is responsible for leading the efforts to help build and develop sustainable leadership and boards for the Black College Community. Previously, he was a founding partner of the firm Talent Bridge, where he managed the Retained Search Practice, Career Services Division, and Diversity Talent Practice. His primary responsibility was to collaborate with local, regional, and national organizations in helping them to identify, attract, and hire top talent with a focus on minority leaders.

Christopher is a graduate of North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University and began his career in public accounting with PricewaterhouseCoopers. He has been featured in the Charlotte Business Journal "People on the Move"; and has been a featured presenter for several organizations on topics relating to diversity and career management. Christopher is a former officer on the board of the Charlotte Chapter of NAAHR and currently is an Advisor for the School of Business at Johnson C. Smith University.

Christopher's outstanding ability in search and partnering with clients, candidates and professional staff, as well as his extensive business background, is instrumental in the overall purpose and vision of TM².
